● SKIPPER'S MOTIVATION

It's a great pleasure to be lining up at the start of the CIC Normandy Channel Race, a race that we really enjoy, with its legendary points of passage and its magnificent playground between the English Channel and the Celtic Sea.

It's the first major event of the season, the ideal opportunity to measure ourselves against some stiff competition, and to define the areas for improvement for the future.

It will also be the first race for Cédric and I: we're really looking forward to racing together and competing against each other in this demanding event.

After a year of hard work and preparation, now it's time to face off, learn about the boat and enjoy sailing offshore.

See you in Caen for the kick-off to a great season!
